READY TO GO — Preparations for the launching of the first U. S. satellite center around this Vanguard rocket at Cape Canaveral, Fla. The 72-foot launching vehicle for the satellite is paralleled by a huge gantry crane which is used by employees working up and down the sides of the missile. The Vanguard is expected to be fired Wednesday.

WAITING — Fifty newsmen and cameramen have set up camp at Cape Canaveral, Fla., waiting for the launching of this test satellite, expected Wednesday. The baby moon sits atop the third stage of a Vanguard rocket. The 6.4-inch sphere weighs 3 3/4 pounds.

Dag Journeys To Jerusalem

UN Official On 2nd Leg of Peace Mission

JERUSALEM (AP)—U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld arrived in Jerusalem today on the second leg of a Middle East peace mission that apparently made little headway in Jordan.

A Jordanian spokesman said Hammarskjöld might return to Amman after his talks with Israeli leaders.

That was taken as evidence that the secretary general had found Jordan's leaders adamant in their demand for U.N. inspection of Israeli-held Mt. Scopus and their refusal to let Israeli convoys take gasoline to the hill.

Immediately after arriving by plane from Amman, Hammarskjöld went to the U.N. truce headquarters in neutral territory between Jordan and Israel for a talk with U.S. Marine Col. Byron W. Leary, acting chief of the U.N. mediation team.

Later he was to confer with prime Minister David Ben-Gurion and Foreign Minister Golda Meir. A joint U.N.-Jordan communiqué issued after two days of meetings between Hammarskjöld and leaders in Amman indicated that the talks had fallen short of U.N. expectations. The secretary general looked grim as he left the final conference.

Three issues are central in the latest Israel-Jordan tension: (1) Jordan's refusal to allow an Israeli convoy bearing 490 gallons of gasoline to pass through its territory to Mt. Scopus, in old Jerusalem; (2) Jordan's rejection of Col. Leary as a U.N. mediator; and (3) charges from Jordan and Israel that each is building fortifications in the demilitarized zone in violation of the 1949 armistice.

Leary's name was not mentioned, but the statement said the talks covered the work of the U.N. truce supervisory organization, which he currently directs. The Jordanians have accused him of being pro-Israeli, but Hammarskjöld has expressed his confidence in the colonel.

To Be Launched Wednesday Morning

U.S. Experts Prep For 'Moon' Firing

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Engineers worked at top speed today to prepare America's first space satellite for launching at dawn Wednesday or soon thereafter.

They apparently remedied one last-minute problem, the malfunctioning of ground support equipment designed to cool some of the fuel before it was pumped into the rocket. A valve was replaced.

They also labored to eliminate noise interference in the crucial second stage of the three-stage vehicle which will attempt to place a 6 1/2-inch ball into an orbit 300 to 1,200 miles above the earth.

If it is not eliminated, this difficulty could make the 72-foot-tall rocket wobble in flight and cause it to break up.

The experts were optimistic that they would have this trouble worked out.

Confident About Performance Builders of the third-stage rocket—the rocket that actually will propel the Vanguard satellite into an orbit and itself become a satellite—showed up for launching preparations and expressed confidence that if the first two rocket stages work perfectly theirs will too.

Charles E. Bartley of Redlands, Calif., president of Grand Central Rocket Co., told a reporter: "Our rockets already have gone higher than any others. We hope that this week we can claim a second record."

Wilbur G. Hartzell, the company's progress manager, added that there have been many successful static firings of prototype or experimental models, of the Grand Central third-stage rocket, and no failures.

Powered Farside Rockets He pointed out that Grand Central rockets powered the final two stages of the Air Force project Farside, the balloon-launched rocket vehicle which is believed to have reached an altitude of more than 4,000 miles.

While the satellite itself is so small it may not be visible, and may be tracked only by the radio signal it broadcasts, the third-stage shell is painted white and should be visible at dawn and dusk. It will be about five feet long.

This morning's talk was the first face-to-face meeting of Eisenhower and the man he twice defeated for the nation's highest post since early 1953.

After his talk with the President, Stevenson sat in for a 90-minute briefing of congressional leaders of both parties on the administration's proposals for the 15-nation parity.

Stevenson said some of those proposals may require legislation to put them into force.

Mayor's Office Nets $1,947 In November A total of $1,947.15 was the city's share of income from Mayor Dean B. Cranmer's office for November. This amount is $814.30 less than the total for October.

Last month's totals included: Ordinance fees and fines, $506.80; highway patrol fines, $1,177.55; building permits, $50; licenses, $15; court costs, $193.80; and intaximeters, $4.

5-Acre School Site Offered

Board Expected To Take Phillips Offer

A local home builder has agreed to donate five acres of land to the Board of Education as a site for a future elementary school for children in the southeastern section of the city.

Donald Lease told fellow members of the Board of Education, which met Monday night at Salem High School, that L. C. Phillips, owner of the Franklin Homes allments, had made the offer.

The board will be permitted to choose the five acres of land from the 104-acre plot on which Phillips expects to erect about 400 homes on a site horizontal to Merle Drive and Whinnery Lane.

Superintendent of Schools E. S. Kerr said that "five acres would make a fine setup, since we do not envision adding on to any school which would be erected in that area."

Mr. Lease was instructed by the board to arrange a time with Phillips for the board members to tour the land and select the five acres it desires, possibly sometime in January.

Elementary children residing in the southeast portion of the city now attend Reilly School which is in many cases over a mile away from their homes, forcing the children to walk a total of four miles in one day to and from classes.

Lunch Request Received In conjunction with the numerous trips the children going to Reilly must make daily, two representatives of the Reilly Parent-Teacher Association appeared before the board with a request for serving warm lunches at noon to bus students and for children walking long distances.

Mrs. Arnold Kovach and Mrs. Thomas Sheets, Reilly PTA spokesmen, said that the Association would be willing to assist with raising funds, if such a facility could be provided by the board.

Superintendent of Schools E. S. Kerr said that "if the school wants to serve a light lunch, such as soup and crackers and sandwiches, that is a relatively simple matter, but if they want a cafeteria then equipment must be purchased, facilities built, and kitchen personnel hired."

Kerr added that no state license would be required for serving the light lunch, although if the idea were broadened to include a cafeteria.

Chest Drive Lacks $7,500 Of Quota Salem's 1957 Community Chest fund drive is still some $7,500 short of the $58,795 proposed goal as solicitors begin their ninth week of canvassing for the "red feather" agencies.

Mrs. Elizabeth Baker, campaign secretary, again urges all solicitors to turn in their money as soon as possible so that the campaign can be concluded.

"We have held the campaign open for an extra four weeks so that we could climb above the goal but we will fail if more people do not realize their obligation to contribute," Mrs. Baker said.

People are asked to mail their contributions to the Chamber of Commerce office.

Congressional Leaders Meet With President

Discuss Country's Missile-Age Defense, Foreign Policy Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower met with congressional leaders today to over plans for solving the problems of national defense and foreign policy made critical by Russian scientific advances.

The recuperating chief executive got a warm round of applause from 31 key men of both parties as he appeared in the Cabinet room to take the chair for the briefing session.

Half an hour earlier Eisenhower received from his physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, another report of continuing excellent progress in his recovery from the mild stroke which he suffered a week ago Monday.

Reviews Important Matters

Eisenhower was in his office three-quarters of an hour ahead of the congressional conference. Press secretary James C. Hagerly said he was there giving a final check-over to matters to be brought up at the session.

Just before the briefing itself got under way, Eisenhower had a 10-minute talk with Adlai Stevenson, the Democrat whom Eisenhower twice defeated for the presidency. Eisenhower called in Stevenson as a consultant on America's program to be presented at the North Atlantic alliance meeting opening in Paris Dec. 16.

Sevenson, invited to the session with the congressional leaders, was accompanied to the White House by Secretary of State Dulles. The secretary sat in on the talk with Eisenhower.

Eisenhower is awaiting word from his doctors on whether he can attend the Paris meeting.

One of Annual Series The White House session today is one of an annual series, called to fill in the leaders of both parties on the administration program for the coming year in the foreign policy and national defense fields.

A special item on the schedule this year is a preview of proposals for the NATO meeting, which comes only about two weeks before Congress goes back into business.

In advance of the meeting, Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) and some other influential members of the Capitol delegation made it plain they will not be satisfied with anything less than drastic action to speed U.S. missile and satellite development in the face of the Communist challenge.

U.S. Behind Soviets "There is no doubt in my mind that we are behind the Soviets in everything but short-range missiles," said Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee. "We can catch up only if the executive branch will get behind our program and make it move."

Eisenhower presided for an hour.

The matters up for discussion are: one, to get an immediate meeting between representatives of the highway department, the council's steering committee, chamber representatives and new elected city administrators to govern the complete highway program of the Salem area.

Walter J. Hunston, president of the Development Council said he is hoping to have a highway representative meet in Salem sometime this month or after Jan. 1 that so the council can review the whole program and take a united

W.D. Smith, 59, Killed In Traffic Accident

A 59-year-old Salem insurance agent died of injuries received when his car hit a stone abutment at the Rt. 14 underpass three miles northwest of Salem at 10:25 a.m. Monday.

The victim, William D. Smith of 269 Jennings Ave., died at noon in the Salem Clinic of a fractured skull, jaw and multiple lacerations of the scalp, chin, nose and forehead.

It was first believed that the victim, who had a heart condition, had suffered a heart attack causing his death. However, Columbiana County Coroner E. R. Sturgis ruled that internal damage coupled with the injuries caused the motorist's death.

Mr. Smith was returning to Salem after calling on an insurance prospect, it was reported. His car hit the center structure of the underpass where the traffic lanes divide.

Smith was an office accountant representative for Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. for the past four years. He was first appointed agent for the Salem branch of the Metropolitan company in 1934 and has worked here since that time.

Councilmen To Study Report Of Engineers

Zoning, Suggested Improvements Listed; Hearing to be Held

The Salem Comprehensive Master Plan — a guide for long-range city development — was delivered in booklet form to all members of City Council, the Planning Commission and the mayor by the Michael Baker Engineers Monday.

The plan which covers all zoning, traffic control and other phases of the city's growth will be studied by members of the two groups and will go into effect only after their approval. A public hearing will be held.

The object of the zoning phase of the ordinance is to eliminate irregular construction in the city. The zoning plan calls for the city to be divided into six districts to be designated as single family residential, general residential, general business, heavy commercial, industrial and buffer areas.

A meeting to discuss the provisions set up in the plan is expected to be scheduled by City Council at its meeting tonight.

The plan, according to the engineers, will be entirely dependent upon public support and an administrative organization to carry out its aims.

Recommendations Listed Some of the many recommendations made by the engineers to improve the appearance of Salem and make it a better place to live are as follows:

1. The construction of a central maintenance and storage center for the Water and Street Departments.

The center would consist of a single building to house offices for each department, a common radio equipment room map room, lockers, showers, toilets, shop for meter and electrical repairs, water meter repairs and a vehicle maintenance shop.

The building would be located on the northeast portion of the city property on Sugartree Alley.

The structure that would also include two parking garages would cost an estimated $167,500.

2. A municipal program of collection and disposal of garbage and refuse to replace the present system which is handled by private haulers.

A complete collection service in Salem would serve the commercial establishments plus an estimated 4,200 dwellings. This pick-up method, which would be made once a week, is being used with much satisfaction in 29 of 32 cities with a population of over 10,000 in Ohio.

3. Three tot-lots costing $1,500 each should be constructed to eliminate the inadequate recreational facilities for pre-school children in the city.

The W. 7th St. area represents an ideal location for such a facility because of existing vacant land to off-set the new residential growth.

4. In order to concentrate the heavy truck traffic through the city on one continuous street link and afford convenience from the industrial district, a truck access route should be established. The proposed route would cross S. Ellsworth Ave., Mill and Prospect Sts. and intersect with the proposed Route 62 arterial by-pass system.

Completion Date Put Back to June 1

High School Work Is Behind Schedule

The completion date for overall construction of the new Salem senior high school has been moved back three months to June 1 by the architects, although school officials expect to begin moving in equipment sometime in May, it was brought out at last night's Board of Education meeting.

The board last night reviewed the architects' new schedule which originally set the finish-up date for the school for Jan. 1, and, later to March 1.

D. C. Wright, clerk of the works at the school, said that wet weather in the spring hampered work greatly since activity was at a standstill for weeks at a time.

Timetable of Work

Work to be finished by the end of December, according to the schedule, will include concrete, cut-stone, waterproofing and damp-proofing, structural steel, sheet-metal.

Completion dates for other work are: Ornamental and miscellaneous metal, January; masonry, terrazzo and marble tile, February; caulking, lathing plaster, March; window sashes, windows, walls, carpentry and building equipment, accoustical, April; and sewers, hardware, painting and finishing and resilient work, May.

Because the board postponed installation of an elevator originally drawn up for the building, members agreed last night to spend $85 for material to build floors at each level in the empty shafts and to create two storage spaces about 50 square feet each.

The shafts adjoin present storage areas. Work will be executed by the board rather than the contractor.

Harry Vincent, representative of the First Christian Church, will obtain the plat and accompanying papers today for transfer of the E. Sixth St. right-of-way, Darrel Fadley, school business manager, reported to the board. Fadley added that Vincent had assured him church proceedings in transferring the area would be accelerated.

Construction of the E. Sixth St. Extension will be continued when the weather moderates in April, Fadley said. Until the sod is dry the equipment cannot be used, he explained. The extension probably will be finished by the latter part of May.

Brick Work Nearly Done In his building progress report, Wright said that about three working days will complete all outside brick work at the school. Construction of the E. Sixth St. Extension will be continued when the weather moderates in April, Fadley said. Until the sod is dry the equipment cannot be used, he explained. The extension probably will be finished by the latter part of May.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

At mid-day on Nov. 21, Chicago Police Capt. George Barnes grabbed the microphone in a riotous union hall and read the peace act to an angry, shouting crowd of 800. My friend, Capt. Barnes, is a sort of one-man conciliation service, though officially known as supervising captain of the Chicago Police Dept's Labor Detail. On the 21st, he had rushed a squad to the union meeting hall in Chicago's Midwest Hotel, 6 North Hamlin ave.

He moved quickly after telephone reports that the angry crowd, half of them women, had rushed through the corridors and stormed the headquarters of their union, Local 713 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. The officers are in the hotel not far from the big union hall itself.

The reports indicated that the crowd had dashed toward the union offices where its officials believed the revolution had come.

THE UNION officers barricaded themselves. But the doors came tumbling down. Windows were broken. Furniture was shattered. The staff members wriggled through the crowd — but lost some of their clothes in the process.

Capt. Barnes was informed that the 800 beseigers were strikers — wildcaters — who had left their jobs at the Automatic Electric Co., in suburban North Lake, Ill. The firms turns out all the telephone equipment for General Telephone, a Midwest communications company.

The wildcaters, including a heavy contingent of working housewives, had three times rejected an agreement made between their union officers and the company. The final company offer was for an increase of some $4 a week.

The employees didn't think it was enough. They went down to the meeting hall. They set up their own rank-and-file committee, and then attacked the headquarters. And they trooped back to their auditorium.

At this point, Capt. Barnes grabbed the microphone. He told the irate unionists they were jeopardizing their own jobs. He said many of them might be fired. He outlined their union constitution. He said many of them might be fired. He outlined their union constitution. He told them of the democratic processes and the guarantees in the by-laws.

THEY SHOUTED BACK. Their questions were belligerent and mostly uninformed. They seemed to know little of the problems of contract negotiations or job reclassification, a key issue in the plant.

This, more than the riot, is the key to this story. The violence was soon over. Capt. Barnes took the rank-and-file committee back to the office.

He called the union's international headquarters in Washington. He was told that the strike was a wildcat but that the workers would get still another chance to vote on the new contract. Capt. Barnes arranged for this. The vote was for a strike — by almost two to one.

Shortly after the plant opened for the new week, Capt. Barnes told me that many workers were going through the gates, strike or no strike.

I have monitored other recent revolts — though none as turbulent as this uprising of the housewives and men of the assembly line. This rebellion, and many others, little noted, souse their home battlegrounds, are not against racket leaders.

THESE UPEAVALS are the blowing off of steam. They spout up from the factory and warehouse

A Dog's World

By ED CREAUGH
For Hal Boyle

WASHINGTON (AP)—"No, Rover, I can never marry you," sobbed Mimi, the beautiful French poodle. "Go, and never darken my kennel door again."

"Hah!" declared the spurned suitor. "I'm not good enough for you, eh? You think I can't buy you the chopped sirloin you're accustomed to!"

"It's not that, Rover," Mimi wept. "I'd share my last bone with you. I'd rob trash cans with you. But—"

"I see it all now," said the male dog darkly. "It's because I'm a beagle, isn't it? You think of me as an inferior, just because you won that silly best-of-show ribbon!"

"No, no!" Mimi's protests rose to an hysterical yelp. "I have nothing against you at all, Rover. If I were to marry anyone—but I can't, you see, not while—" A delicate blush undercoated her powder-gray muzzle. Then she confessed:

"It's the puppies I'm thinking of, Rover. Do you think dogs have any right to bring puppies into a world like this? When they might be packed in a Sputnik and shot out into space at any moment?"

"Why, you silly goose," he laughed. "What a thing to be afraid of. One dog in all this world has been sputniked. The chances that one of ours might be—it's simply fantastic."

"These are fantastic times," Mimi reminded him. "Who knows how many sputniks there may be? I—I'm sorry, Rover. I just can't take the chance."

Rover licked his lips meditatively. "All right, suppose it happened," he said. "Suppose one of our pups was the first dog to reach the moon. Wouldn't you be proud?"

"I'd be scared to death," said Mimi, weeping again.

"Dogs on the moon," Rover mused. "We could run the place to suit ourselves. We'd have it all organized by the time people got there. We'd make them our slaves. I can hear us now. 'Here, human, roll over, human. Jump through this hoop, human.'"

"And we'd give them silly names," chimed in Mimi excitedly, pawing away her tears.

"Names like Mimi and Rover—" "We'd feed them our table scraps!"

"We'd hire people-catchers to put them in concentration camps if they didn't have people-tags on their collars!"

Raptly, Mimi and Rover gazed upon each other.

"Name the day," growled Rover softly. "You and I may not see this bright tomorrow. But our puppies... and our puppooes' puppies."

"Yes—oh, yes, Rover," whispered Mimi before they scampered to obedience. "I'll marry you. The future belongs to us!"

Be A Booster

For a number of years the Salem High School athletic programs, particularly football and basketball, have been inspired by the loyal support of the Boosters Club.

It wasn't too important whether the teams were at the top of the win column or suffering through an off-season. The Boosters were steadfast in their loyalty—win, lose or draw.

Because of this faith and interest in local high school athletics, the sports program continues to grow, both to the benefit of the school and the students who participate.

The Boosters are more than what the uninformed sometimes refer to as "the downtown quarterbacks." The Boosters membership is pulled from a cross-section of the entire community, both men and women, who are interested in helping school officials maintain a wholesome program of athletics.

Their maxim, "be a booster, not a knocker," could well be adopted in some other community ventures

Leadership Can Not Be Shucked Off

One curious misapprehension seems to be growing out of the latest flurry of discussion about presidential leadership when a president has been flagged down by his doctors.

It is the notion that Mr. Eisenhower—or any president who has suffered a temporary disability—can shuck off his responsibility until he gets well.

The only part of his duty that he can be relieved of is the routine of the presidential office—the thousand and one nagging little tasks that have been imposed on the office for want of something better to do with them.

The responsibility of being president cannot be placed anywhere else. Both for constitutional and moral reasons, only the individual who has been elected to live in the White House can make the ultimate decisions of executive leadership.

To imagine for an instant that Dwight Eisenhower, or any of his predecessors, or any of his successors, might do anything else is to slight the importance of the most powerful elective office on earth.

No president can fail to be conscious of this during every waking moment of his presidential term. He alone has the chief command of the nation's military forces and the chief responsibility for its international relations.

The president alone in this nuclear era can give the order to retaliate in kind if the United States is put under attack with nuclear weapons.

Only the president can give the executive orders to change administrative functions to deal with sudden emergencies. Only the president can exercise the authority to declare national emergencies.

These are the powers that constitute the tension of the presidential office. All the other things presidents have been called on to do are added burdens that have no bearing on the proper performance of the office itself. Abraham Lincoln, for example, was nagged to the point of distraction by job-seekers and hucksters who used to gang up on him on his way to breakfast. As recently as the administrations of Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover, a president was expected to undergo exhausting ordeals of handshaking.

These are the things that can be shucked off; they are being shucked off as rapidly as possible in the drive to protect the health of presidents.

It is unlikely that President Eisenhower ever will believe it is necessary again to show up at Washington Airport to meet an incoming plane. It is unlikely that visiting dignitaries will expect it, either.

The ideal circumstances for the exercise of presidential leadership would be a normal life in the companionship of well informed persons capable of furnishing a wide variety of sound information and opinions. The ideal environment for the peace of mind and freedom from needless distraction that presidents of the United States need for the contemplation of national problems would be something like the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton. N. J. Mr. Eisenhower comes close to this environment on his farm at Gettysburg. He should spend more time there.

No president can sidestep his responsibility; no president wants to sidestep it. But Dwight Eisenhower surely is not the first president who has wished his countrymen would let him bear it as a man, instead of as a political beast of burden.

Once Upon a Time Right Now

The beautiful princess who used to live in an improbably tower guarded by a deep moat and a passel of dragons now lives in London, where she is highly accessible to one and all, including the photographers and gossip columnists.

Thereby hangs a tale.

The tale, it would seem, should be of special interest to close and casual students of behaviorism—the people who think that the things they and other people do can be explained by what they are.

What they have their eye on in the case of the beautiful princess who lives in London, under the relentless scrutiny of the press, is her inclination to be herself, instead of being what she is expected to be under the royal version of noblesse oblige.

As herself, she shows a perfectly natural tendency to prove she has a personality of her own, instead of being merely the little sister of another beautiful princess, her older sister, who made it all the way to queen of "this realm, all her other realms and territories, head of the commonwealth, Defender of the Faith etc."

This natural tendency is given a special quality of oomph, moreover, by the fact the princess, herself, has been endowed with a special quality of oomph. This has attracted to her a retinue of lads and lassies with a flair for oomph, thereby making her the royal pace-setter for a circle of society that is giddier and gaddier in London than it is in most other places on this earth where good fellows get together.

In the absence of towers, moats and dragons, this has created a vexing problem in behavior for a kingdom which regards royal personages as being a little more than mortals, even though a little less than gods. But behaviorists are pretty sure they have the answer to the problem.

The princess is trying to assert herself as an individual, that is all. The trouble is, of there really is trouble worth the troubling that she is inclined to overdo it in the immemorial fashion of little sisters who try to prove they are every bit as noteworthy as big sisters.

And that, for the time-being, is all there is to the story about the beautiful princess who lives in London, where every dido and every new dress is the property of the gossip reporters and the cameramen.

N.Y. GRAND JURY recently recommended a policeman in every school. Things are rough there but we didn't know they were that bad.

There are schools that could use two cops (both mounted), but serious suggestion that every schoolhouse have a policeman to keep the kiddies in line is still startling to mon and pop.

Fancy an age in which a cop reports to the nearest precinct "Officer Mooney reporting from School No. 26. It's now noon, and no major disturbance so far. It looks like I won't need the squad car."

IT'S AN AGE of juvenile violence. But when you put a cop in every school you are giving the schools more coverage than the waterfront piers and underworld steak roasts. Grand jury hints there are schools where the top would need protection by another cop. Nevertheless, there was a time when a principal who couldn't handle any situation without police aid would turn in his contract.

It is not the duty of women teachers to go into combat with violent moppets but in our school days there were many schoolma'ams who never finished second in any argument. There was a teacher in Davenport school, back home (Libby Healy), who could take on two Blackboard Jungle types at a time and subdue 'em.

THE PRINCIPAL, while only five feet six in height and with a notably short reach, qualified for the fighter of the year if any kid tried to take the school routine into his own hands. If a policeman had interfered he would have licked the cop. These are strange times.

We just heard of a parent who won't send his kid to school until he finds which has the best police officer, and how long it takes the riot squad to get there from the nearest precinct.

Darned If They Didn't Put Him Together Again

The Old Dispute Revived

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON UP—Nothing happened this time. Nobody took President Eisenhower's powers away from him. Atty. Gen. Rogers said no one had to. But the fact Rogers got into the picture at all revives an old dispute.

Vice President Nixon, after Eisenhower's mild stroke last week, told Newsweek magazine that he had informed him and other Cabinet members that no delegation of powers to anyone else was necessary.

Rogers, asked how he came to give such an opinion, said he was requested to do so by the White House staff. He said he stated his views after a full discussion with Eisenhower's doctors.

The doctors had reported the President's slight stroke—they avoided use of the word "stroke"—was apparently "mild and transitory" and that his reading writing and reasoning were not affected.

But asking Rogers at all for his opinion—even though he is the highest legal officer in the government—raises a critical constitutional question about the future: If at some other time Eisenhower suffers an illness that makes his ability to carry out his duties questionable, who decides that he can or can't do his job? The attorney general?

There's nothing in the Constitution which says the attorney general has or has not such power.

The Constitution is vague on this whole question.

All the Constitution says is that if the President can't perform his duties, the vice president steps in. But there never has been agreement on these questions which spring from the vagueness:

When and how and by whom is the decision made that a president can't do his job and that the vice president should step in? And, if the vice president does step in, is it temporary or permanent?

Does he step back into the vice presidency if the President recovers? And who decides that a president has recovered? Or is a president automatically out of office once his vice president takes over his duties?

And further: Suppose a president knows he's too disabled to do his job but refuses to let the vice president carry out his duties? Or suppose he's disabled and unconscious. Who decides then?

Eisenhower himself sought to clear up this constitutional mess earlier this year by asking—through his then Atty. Gen. Brownell—an amendment to carry out two basic proposals he made.

But there was nothing in his proposals that mentioned the attorney general or gave him any power of decision on presidential disability. This is what Eisenhower suggested:

1. A disabled president can instruct his vice president to take over his duties—but it must be in writing—until he recovers. Then he will resume his duties.

2. When a president is disabled but unwilling to say so or is unable to say so, the vice president can take over until he recovers but only if a majority of the department heads in the Cabinet agree to it in writing.

In either case, when a president agrees he's back to normal and can do his job, he can say so and do so. That raises a neat new question: Suppose he's the only one who thinks he's back to normal. What happens then?

If a president is clearly unable to do his job but won't step aside, he can be impeached. But his disability would have to be indisputable to avoid a national crisis.

The Key to Peace

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Soviet People's Fear Greatest Deterrent of War

The Russian people's fear of another war is today the greatest deterrent of war. It is the chief reason why the Kremlin will not risk steps that can provoke a war.

This simple truth is both the assurance of peace and the key to peace. Sometimes, with all the hysteria that arises when there is introduced on the scene a spectacular weapon of devastating force, such as the intercontinental missile, there is a tendency to fail to see the forest for the trees. Peoples—not weapons—are the key to peace.

THE CHALLENGING fact was borne in on the writer over the weekend as he conversed with a taxi driver in New York City who spoke with an accent that was evidently European.

"What country did you come from?" I asked.

"The Ukraine," he answered. "I left there when I was 18. I was a soldier in the czar's army when the revolution happened in 1917."

"Did you and your people expect the revolution?"

"No, we were positive it couldn't happen. We hoped for it but we were convinced the czar was the strongest man in the world and that his army would crush any revolution quickly."

"But were the people dissatisfied and had they been talking revolution?"

"Oh, yes," he said. "They were bitter. They didn't like the war. The separation of families and the casualties were terrible. The people were hungry and they thought a revolution would give them all the land the czar had. They were uncivilized—I mean uneducated."

"What do you think are the chances of a revolution now?"

"Much better. The people are educated now. They have heard what freedom is like—they can't help learning about it somehow as they get more education."

"What would bring about revolution?"

"If they became afraid of another war—they just won't stand for war."

THE FOREGOING is typical of what many prominent refugees have been telling this writer. It is a reflection of the feeling of people in any country as they face a tyrannical government. They will endure hardships. They will refrain from overt acts as long as they can. But once the threat of destruction appears, revolution becomes preferable. Desperate measures then are inevitable as the army itself joins the people in revolt.

This psychological behavior is well established by historical experience. But, strangely enough, those who direct or control our propaganda do not take advantage of it. Maybe it is because they don't get enough cooperation from the spokesmen for American policy.

Certainly America pulled a "boner" on the "Sputnik" episode—but not the kind generally supposed. The error wasn't just the fact that Russia launched the satellite first or that the United States was allegedly caught napping. The "boner" was in America's failure to take advantage of the opportunity to tell the people of Soviet Russia what new dangers the "Sputnik" really created for them.

It is a safe bet that if the United States had shot the first "Sputnik" into outer space, the Moscow propaganda machine would have worked around the clock for days and days broadcasting to the Soviet people the accusation that a "war-mongering nation" had begun a new era of intimidation.

BELEATEDLY the Moscow broadcasts have begun to criticize severely the U.S. Senate investigating committee for its effort to accelerate the production of missiles as a countermove. This is clear recognition of a basic truth—that, as more and more deadly weapons are produced, the fears of the people in Russia will grow and top rulers there must find the only justification for war in the doctrine of self-defense. America must repeat constantly that it will never attack first. The Soviet people who know the arbitrariness of their rulers must be reminded that the real danger is that their own leaders will miscalculate and plunge the world into war.

Freedom for the individual and protection for human life—survival—are deeper reasons for unrest and potential revolution inside Russia today than any which prompted the 1917 revolution. More concentrated study by Congress is needed on how to get "missiles" of information through to the Russian people.

PARTISAN SENATORS and congressmen would have used their time more constructively in recent days if they had been making speeches directed to the people of Soviet Russia—to help them understand how their rulers have intensified the arms race that might lead to war.

Free peoples can win the hearts and minds of enslaved people but it takes bold measures—"Sputniks" of ideas. For the taxicab driver was right. Revolution against a despotism is always around the corner and history has repeatedly revealed the reason for the saying: "Uneasy lies the head that wears the crown."

Thanks To Gumperson

By TRUMAN TWILL

If you, too, have wondered why a shoeshine breaks when you are least expecting it, Gumperson's Law can clear up the mystery.

All of us who have been victims of the law, without understanding it—without even knowing it existed—can be grateful to the scholars whose research has brought it into the open.

In $15-a-word gobbledegook, Gumperson's Law sounds like this:

"The contradictory of a welcome probability will assert itself whenever such an eventuality is likely to be most frustrating."

In still another hi-falutin version, the Law can be stated like this:

"The outcome of a given desired probability will be inverse to the degree of desirability."

In words that anyone can understand, Gumperson's Law is simply this:

"Some days you can't win."

These are the days when the early start you had planned is ruined by the fact the electricity failed during the right and stopped the alarm clock.

The dish of favorite breakfast food you were looking forward to eating with eager anticipation must be dumped because the cereal milk was past its prime.

Because the sun is shining when you get up, you take advantage of the opportunity to wear a newly-pressed suit—and it rains that afternoon.

You have been tipped off that something you like especially well is on the menu for dinner, so you work up a thumping case of indigestion after lunch.

Gumperson's Law means that the day after the boss unbends and begins to pay you what you're worth, the Internal Revenue Service notifies you of a blooper to your disadvantage in your latest tax return.

If you have the family car washed, it rains within a matter of hours.

All the wonderful parking places you could wish for are on the other side of the street, with no U-turns permitted.

Road repair crews with jackhammers tear up the pavement in both directions the afternoon of the day you had invited guests for dinner.

The picture tube on the TV set goes phit! the night of the championship fight.

Your children lose their wits and break out with skin eruptions a few hours before they are to be inspected by relatives.

The homecoming festivities and graduation exercises—when old friends get together for a jolly time—are drenched and blown hither by the worst storm in the memory of man.

A child loses a front tooth the morning of the day the photographer is going to take its picture for posterity.

Your highly intelligent dog forgets all his tricks and goes into a sulk when friends who have been led to expect something wonderful drop in to inspect the canine prodigy.

Whatever disease is going around gets around to you within 24 hours of the time you were hoping to be at your best for a special occasion.

All of us are indebted to Kiplinger Magazine for bringing Gumperson's Law to light. Gumperson, says the magazine, was killed in 1947 at the height of his fame. He was feeling pleased with himself one evening for being prudent enough to face oncoming traffic while strolling along a quiet lane. He was struck from behind by a forgetful English visitor barreling down the wrong side of the road. It was fitting that he should have died as a result of his own law, but he had made his mark in the world.

'LIFE BEYOND THE GRAVE'

Actress Deborah Kerr
Has Positive Attitude

(Editor's Note — Funerals, lovely Deborah Kerr thinks, are "barbaric" because they emphasize death's negative side. But the "real I" will live on and return to oneness with God, the famed actress believes. This is the first of three articles by distinguished leaders on life beyond the grave.)

By DEBORAH KERR

HOLLYWOOD — Recently my secretary, who had been with me most of the 11 years I have been in America, died after a long illness. I pondered how to break the news to my two daughters, who had been close to her.

The girls' nurse came into the room while I was talking with Melanie, my 9-year-old, and said "The funeral will be on Monday."

"What funeral?" asked Melanie, her eyes bright with interest. Francesca is 5, and not quite so curious.

"Vivian's, dear," I told her. "You know how she has been ill for a long time. Well, she has died."

Melanie thought for a moment,

then said, "Oh, well, she will always be with us."

"That's right dear," I said, surprised and happy with her reply. "Her spirit will always be with us."

Viewpoint on Death

What a wonderful reaction to death! I thought. Not many of us can view death with such wholehearted clarity. Usually it is the very young or the very old.

Why can we view death without fear only when we are very young, very old or very sick?

I believe it's because we are every day instilled with the fear of death. Constant suggestions that death is something awful build up a terror of dying.

Funerals are another way of making death seem odious. I think they are barbaric. I don't want people moaning and weeping when I'm gone. I'd rather have them open a bottle of champagne and remember the good times we'd had.

But society insists on imposing grief when death comes. I can remember how shocked my grandparents were when my mother refused to wear mourning clothes after my father died in 1934.

Pondering Life's Question

"He never liked me in black," she told them. "I look terrible in black and I won't wear it."

As my children have been growing up, I have tried to form answers to their questions about life and death and God. Certainly they are not THE answers, and I hesitate to set them down in print — that should be the realm for thinkers like Albert Schweitzer and Bertrand Russell. But since The Associated Press has asked me, here they are.

When Melanie asks me what it's like after death, I try to put it in terms she can understand. And children nowadays are crazy about outer space.

"Supposing you take a rocket 80,000 miles into space," I tell her. "When you get up there, you'd have a feeling that all is space. There's no end, is there?"

"No, there is no end," she says, her mind playing with the idea.

"Then that's how it must be when we die," I reason. "There is no beginning and there is no end. We have no sense of time, no sense of living."

I firmly believe that, I can't conceive that we are merely a seed that is planted on this earth grows up and dies. Man is immortal. He never dies. He simply IS.

We find it hard to face dying because we want our identities to live on after the death of the body. What we fear to lose is merely the ego, the false I. This ego fearfully awaits oblivion.

But that is ridiculous. The real I will live on. Rather it will return to the oneness with God. That is true immortality.

The trouble is that man has created God in his image. We think of him as a nice old gent with a gold beard and white robes who sits up in the clouds. This reflects our mistaken love of the ego, the human form.

Our bodies are not US. If they were, part of our consciousness would be lost if we cut off an arm. Nor are we just brains. If we were, the brain could work without the body.

Want Eternal Bodies

We want to carry our forms into the next existence. But there's no logic in that. How could we look the same as we do on earth? At what age? What about babies and deformed people who die? Are they stuck forever with the way they looked at death? Obviously not.

Everyone wants to know where they'll go after death. I think they go everywhere. God is in every one of us. When we die, we are freed of the limitations of the body and return to God. We become part of all space, all time, all form.

Will we meet our friends and loved ones?

Certainly. Because we will all be one — all part of the eternal mind, God.

A line from "The Proud and the Profane" sticks in my mind. The Marine stands in the graveyard and says, "Everybody tries to teach us how to live. Why don't they teach us how to die?"

Perhaps one day we shall learn. Perhaps, through science, future generations may be able to realize death for what it is — a great adventure.

Next: Science and immortality.

The only 1958 car that offers more of everything you want... yet is priced lower than in '57

Here's great news! While prices of 1958 cars of other manufacturers are up, the price of Ford's exciting new Custom 300 Series is down. In fact, a brand-new 58 Ford Custom 300 with all of its exciting new styling and engineering advances is priced lower than a '57 model, similarly equipped! But there is much more than low price to Ford's value story.

World approved styling. A Custom 300 brings you styling that is dramatically new. With its Honey-combed grille, Slipstream roof, Deep-Sculptured rear deck, Power-Flow hood and Safety-Twin headlights and taillights, Ford styling drew admiring glances all the way from Paris to Saigon... yet it's yours now in any Custom 300 without extra cost!

New handling ease. Slide behind the wheel of a Custom 300 and discover just how much fun driving can be. Notice how smoothly it handles. That's Ford's new feather-touch Magic-Circle steering, the next best thing to power steering.

New riding comfort. Notice, too, the solid comfort of your softer, smoother ride. That's Ford's easier acting front and rear suspensions. They soak up the bumps before they reach you. And you'll ride in luxury with Ford's beautiful new deep-dimension interiors!

Thrifty, new engines. You have a wonderful choice of new power plants, designed for real gas-saving economy plus greater performance. Six or V-8, they give you more power, smoother power, from less gas!

Priced as much as $50 lower. A comparison of manufacturer's suggested retail delivered prices shows that a 58 Ford Custom 300 is priced as much as $50 less than the same model for '57! You'll wonder how Ford can offer so many of the things you want in a car priced so low. One big reason: Ford gives you more car for less money because Ford sells more!

See and drive a Custom 300 and you'll agree that these Fords give you more value for your car-buying dollars than any car on the American road today.

Types Homework With Toes

10-Year-Old Crippled Boy Attends School by Telephone

DALLAS (AP)—If you went over 10-year-old Joe Rowe's school records you'd notice he got a straight A average last semester and was doing so well he skipped the fifth grade and went into the sixth this year.

About the only thing unusual you'd notice is that he types his homework with his toes.

He has to. His arms are paralyzed by polio and although he can also write and paint with his toes, he prefers to use a typewriter. He uses the hunt and peck system with his strong and deft toes.

Joe, who hasn't walked in five years, spends his nights in an iron lung. By day he attends school by telephone, watches television, paints and runs his electric train.

After polio hit, a tutor and his mother helped him through the early grades. At the time, he lived in San Antonio and a telephone hookup to school was arranged for some classes.

When he moved here, it became a regular thing for him to attend Dan D. Rogers school by telephone.

A small sound box is set up in the schoolroom and another in Joe's room. Teachers, standing near the box, conduct classes as usual. At times they fire questions into the box and they are relayed by a special telephone wire to Joe. Joe answers back on the wire.

His teachers, Mrs. Sarah Childress and Mrs. Mary Pool, say he is one of the two sixth-graders who got straight A's last semester.

His parents try to give him as many outside activities as possible. Last summer his father Sidney Rowe took him fishing.

"I got one hooked and couldn't bring him in," Joe reports. "so I turned the rod over to dad. He let the fish get away."

Brothers Face Child, Car Stealing Charges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two brothers appear in Municipal Court here today to face charges of child stealing and auto theft.

The two, Nathaniel Sexton, 23, and his brother William, 19, admitted to police they stole a car early Sunday morning and later abandoned in Portsmouth a 3-month-old baby they found in the car. They were arrested shortly after that near Ironton.

The baby, Robert Wayne Herlitz, son of Airman and Mrs. Wayne Herlitz of Columbus, was abandoned in Portsmouth in 15-degree weather. He was found at about 4:30 a.m. Sunday and taken to Mercy Hospital there. He is reported in "good" condition.

The mother said she left the infant in the car for a few minutes while she went into a Columbus cafe to pick up two friends. The brothers left the same car at about the same time, police said, and seeing the car with the motor running decided to take it. They wanted to visit some relatives in Grayson, Ky., police said.

They were arrested in Gervase, Ohio, near Ironton, when a state highway patrolman, Glenn G. Finley, spotted the car and found the brothers in a house across the street.

Prosecution Not to Appeal Sentence

Girard, Wife Prepare For Journey to U.S.

CAMP DREW, Japan (AP)—William S. Girard and his Japanese wife, "Candy," began final preparations today for their trip to the United States after Japan decided not to appeal the three-year suspended sentence a Japanese court gave the Illinois soldier.

Watanabe and the supreme prosecutor's office in Tokyo said they did not think they could obtain a more severe penalty in a higher court. U.S.-Japanese relations, strained during parts of outside pressure... we will take it up at the next Diet (Parliament) session.

Report Tells Of Bad Flaws In Churches

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—A sharp, probing light was turned on America's churches today and it found signs of great promise, but also serious flaws.

The hard-hitting appraisal came in a 6,500-word report on the "State of the Churches" to the triennial general assembly of the National Council of Churches.

It cited these factors, among others, as currently widespread characteristics of U.S. religious life:

1. Christian teachings concerning the hereafter have long been sidestepped in many churches, but are now regaining their rightful place in church perspective.

2. A trend in the churches to be ruled by the question, "What does the popular will expect of us?" is changing to a more courageously Christian guidepost. "What is the word of God which we must proclaim?"

3. Modern churches too often have put the accent on secular yardsticks of success—size, statistics and outward attractiveness—rather than spiritual dedication.

4. Many congregations would rather have a minister who is a "good administrator and promoter" than one who is "a loyal and humble disciple of Jesus Christ, a thinker and a fearless prophet of the sovereign and redeeming Lord."

5. Churches too widely have been accepting technology as "the most realistic approach" to human welfare, but now are insisting that man's spiritual condition determines the destiny of the group and the individual.

6. Interest in religion appears to be at an all-time high, with church membership over 100 million, but delinquency, immorality and social confusion also are at peaks.

7. Fifty-three churches reported total income of $2,041,908,161 last year, while the yearly take of one criminal syndicate from narcotics, gambling and extortion was an estimated $2,280,000,000.

8. Church membership growth is outstripping population gains, and denominations will have to build new churches at the rate of 2,000 a year for the next 20 years to keep up.

9. Too many people speak vaguely of the need of "faith and religion," rather than of the real need of God, of a "return to the Father."

The wide-ranging report was prepared by the Rev. Dr. Roswell P. Barnes, associate general secretary of the council.

It was presented on the third day of the week-long assembly of representatives of 30 Protestant and Orthodox denominations with about 37½ million members.

Labor Views With Disfavor Plan to Forego Wage Boosts

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Labor union chiefs looked with general disfavor today on a proposal from one of their colleagues that unions help combat inflation by foregoing 1958 wage boosts.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, sent word through aides that he will personally scotch the idea in a speech to one of the several union groups meeting in advance of the AFL-CIO convention.

Other federation leaders generally disagreed with the plan put forward by President Richard J. Gray of the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department, claiming some 3½ million of the 15 million AFL-CIO members.

Gray, in a speech to his building trades group Monday, called for loosened government credit policies to aid financing of all types of construction and suggested the wage moratorium to counter inflation.

He said his plan would create more construction jobs.

But other AFL-CIO leaders were quick to hark back to the AFL-CIO's economic thesis that a high wage policy is good for the country by creating mass purchasing power to buy up production.

Meany was expected to stress this.

In Detroit, Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, and AFL-CIO vice president, said he would not comment on the suggestion until he saw the text of Gray's remarks.

Reuther has announced that his union in 1958 contract negotiations will give top priority to demands for a shorter work week and a substantial increase in take home pay.

Reuther also proposed that the big auto companies cut prices on 1958 models by an average of $100 and in return he said the UAW would take the companies' financial position into consideration in framing its wage demands. This proposal was turned down by the auto companies.

Critics of Gray's wage increase holdback plan also said building tradesmen are in a better wage position than most other groups of workers. A government survey in mid-1957 showed their nationwide average wage at $3.29 an hour.

Frank Gannett, Newspaper Head, Dies

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Frank E. Gannett, who built a $3,000 stake into a newspaper empire, died today. He was 81.

The publisher had been under medical care since April 1955, when he suffered a fracture of a vertebra in a fall down stairs at his home.

Gannett retired last April as president of the Gannett Co., Inc., and became president emeritus. The company owns and operates 22 newspapers, 4 radio stations and television stations.

Most of the Gannett newspapers are in New York state.

Two-thirds of the common stock of the Gannett Co., representing voting control, is held by the Frank E. Gannett Newspaper Foundation, Inc. It is enjoined to continue publishing the newspapers.

Gannett directed that the foundation use its funds for charitable, educational and general philanthropic purposes in communities where Gannett newspapers are located and generally circulated. The foundation has made several grants.

Applications for the position which is being vacated by George Koontz Dec. 31.

In reporting on the Nov. 10 meeting of the State Board of Education, Supt. E. S. Kerr said that the board decided that seventh and eighth grade teachers in six-year or junior high schools could hold either elementary or secondary certificates, and that ninth grade teachers must hold high school certificates. The board originally proposed that all junior high teachers possess high school certificates. Kerr added.

The board adopted minimum high school standards without including the proposal to add an additional unit of mathematics or science to requirements for graduation from first grade high schools, Kerr said.

The board based its action on the fact that only the bottom three to five per cent of students would be affected and that the other 95 to 98 per cent take advantage of mathematics and science offered.

Fitch requested Kerr to make a survey on the present mathematics and science curriculum in the high school, with suggestions "for progress" to be appended. Kerr said the survey would be presented at the next board meeting.

Much time was taken up with a discussion by Fitch of what he feels is a need for more math and science offerings to students in the high school to keep abreast of similar training in countries such as the Soviet Union.

Kerr said that the able students are taking the courses offered — three years of math and two of science — and that a "healthy situation" exists now since 25 per cent of Salem high school youth attend college.

Other Board Action

In other action, the board:

Approved the purchase of a refrigerator at Buckeye School as requested by Principal Mrs. George Peterson. The present refrigerator will be traded in for a new appliance at a cost of $199.

Approved the board's check for $4,770 to complete transfer of the lot behind Buckeye School to the board from C. F. Paumier. A ten per cent retainer fee of $530, based on the total purchase price of $3,500, was given Paumier several months ago, Fadely reported.

Approved the adoption of a textbook, "Psychology for Living" by Sonenson and Malm as a textbook at Salem High School.

Approved the attendance of Darrel Fadely at the Ohio Education Association annual meeting Wednesday through Friday in Cincinnati.

Requested Kerr to have Phillips look into the schedule of school buses, since the board received a complaint from a parent who said her child left for school at 7 a.m. and was not transported home until after 5 p.m.

Board members at the session were Heddleston, Fitch, Orein, Naragon, Lease and Harold Smith. Also present were Fadely, Koontz, Kerr, and D. C. Wright.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Labor union chiefs looked with general disfavor today on a proposal from one of their colleagues that unions help combat inflation by foregoing 1958 wage boosts.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, sent word through aides that he will personally scotch the idea in a speech to one of the several union groups meeting in advance of the AFL-CIO convention.

Other federation leaders generally disagreed with the plan put forward by President Richard J. Gray of the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department, claiming some 3½ million of the 15 million AFL-CIO members.

Gray, in a speech to his building trades group Monday, called for loosened government credit policies to aid financing of all types of construction and suggested the wage moratorium to counter inflation.

He said his plan would create more construction jobs.

But other AFL-CIO leaders were quick to hark back to the AFL-CIO's economic thesis that a high wage policy is good for the country by creating mass purchasing power to buy up production.

Meany was expected to stress this.

In Detroit, Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, and AFL-CIO vice president, said he would not comment on the suggestion until he saw the text of Gray's remarks.

High School

crete flooring has been poured in all parts of the whole building except in the music section, while terrace floor finish has been put in most of the corridor floors in the main classroom section.

Wright said that roof slabs have been poured on the entire school building, and that all roofing — built up of felt layers on top of roof slab — has been finished in the trades class, science and main classroom areas.

Room partitions in the science and trades class area are complete with the exception of steel partitions surrounding the trades class offices, he said. Partitions are begun in the greater part of the central classroom first floor, while "considerable progress" has been made in the northeast section of the area.

Both stairways have been installed from the first to second floors in the central classroom section, and both large overhead doors at loading platforms in the trades wing have been installed.

Plastering is finished in five rooms of the science unit, while lath for plastering is done in the central classroom division, including the library, Wright's report continued.

Window installation is complete in both the trades and science wings, and windows are finished on the east and south sides of the central area; while he said the electrical contractor is installing conduits for clocks and intercommunication systems adding that the installation of overall conduit "is progressing quite satisfactorily" and is keeping ahead of the other trades.

Two truck loads of student lockers for the corridors have arrived at the site where rough plumbing is nearly complete, Wright noted.

The future districts which will need additional water lines include the areas north of Jennings, Ellsworth, and Lincoln Avenues, to the county line. Development to the west, south and east of the city will also require services.

The estimated cost of the long-range water expansion program would be $80,740.

Enforced maintenance of all vacant land should be stressed by the city.

The average vacant lot in the city is unkempt and it detracts from the general beauty of Salem.

10. The present system of storm sewers in Salem is inadequate to meet existing needs and results in flooding during severe storms. A program of storm sewer improvement should be initiated. This work should be scheduled and completed by city labor.

The 10 suggested improvements listed above are only a part of the survey conducted by the professional engineers to improve and beautify Salem.

Plan Subject to Change

The plan will be studied by City Council and the Planning Commission and final approval is expected before the first of the new year.

All the suggestions set up in the Plan may either be completely accepted, revised to meet the financial reserve of the city, or be completely rejected.

As soon as the regulations and zoning ordinance of the Plan have been approved, a public hearing will be set for within 30 days after such approval.

A Master Plan Board of Administration will then be appointed by Council. This board will see that all provisions of the plan are upheld.

Alcorn Chides Republicans

Attacks Unfaithful Members of Party

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Republican national chairman Meade Alcorn today chided Republicans who stay home on election day or vote for Democrats because of displeasure with GOP candidates.

"The Republican who stays home or splits his ticket because he may not be in absolute agreement with his own party's candidate or platform is inviting the establishment of policies with which he is certain to find himself in almost total disagreement," Alcorn said.

The GOP party chief's remarks were prepared for a Republican state conference. Because of Alcorn's illness, Miss Bertha Adkins, assistant national committee chairman, arranged to deliver his speech.

Alcorn cited two elections to bear out his point about what happens when Republicans do not actively support their party candidates.

In one, Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche defeated Republican George H. Bender in 1956, ousting Bender from one of Ohio's Senate seats.

Had that election gone the other way, he said, Republicans with Vice President Nixon's help would have been able to organize the Senate and assume the chairmanships of its committees.

In the other, Democrat William E. Proxmire won a special election last August to fill the Wisconsin Senate seat left vacant by the death of Republican Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy. Proxmire defeated former Gov. Walter J. Kohler, a Republican.

Salem Quakers Finish 10th In Final AP Football Poll

Benedictine Voted No. 1

E. Palestine Ends 20th; Alliance 17th

Salem's vaunted gridiron Quaker who climbed all season long in the state AP poll, finally came to rest today perched in undisputed possession of tenth place among Ohio scholastic's football powers.

Coach Earle Bruce's aggregation accumulated 46 points in the voting to finish but 11 points behind ninth ranked Toledo Central Catholic and four points ahead of 11th ranked Lancaster.

East Palestine, tutored by John Hogan, ended up in 20th place while Alliance finished in a 17th place tie with Van Wert.

The locals final ranking is a tribute to Bruce and his coaching staff of Blaine Morton, Sam Priddy, Karl Zellers, and Vince Crawford.

This was the Salem mentor's second year of coaching and the Quaker's 9-1 mark brought Bruce's two-season record to 13-6.

Cleveland Benedictine captured first place honors with 247 points and was followed closely by the Massillon Tigers who ended in second place with 240 points.

Canton McKinley, the victor of the crown the past two years, ended in 14th place. Toledo DeVilbiss, who finished third, was only 15 points out of the top slot. They have won 11 in a row.

Sixth-ranked Troy, winner of 27 straight, was the highest scoring eleven among the elite with 369 markers while Youngstown South posted the best defensive record. They permitted their foes but 25 points.

A total of 39 sportswriters, 27 from newspapers and 12 from radio-television stations participated in the final balloting. Rankings were determined on the basis of 10 points for a first place vote, nine for a second place etc.

Season records and final standings of the clubs are as follows: Cleveland Benedictine had a 10-0 record, Massillon 8-1-0, Toledo DeVilbiss 11-0-0, Warren Harding, East Cleveland Shaw and Salem 9-1-0, Youngstown South and Troy 9-0-0, Fremont Ross 9-0-1, and Toledo Central Catholic 7-1-1.

Graham to Direct College All-Stars

CHICAGO (AP) — Otto Graham, former Cleveland Brown star and one of the greatest football players in Northwestern University history, will direct the College All Stars against the professional champions Aug. 15 at Soldier Field.

Graham succeeds Curly Lambeau who has been at the All Star helm the past three seasons. Lambeau coached the stars to a 30-27 triumph over Cleveland in 1955, lost to the Browns, 26-0, in 1956 and saw his collegians drop a 22-12 decision to the New York Giants last August.

Lambeau will serve with Graham in an advisory capacity. Graham will select his assistants at a later date. Next June's graduating football players selected for the All Star squad will report for training at Northwestern July 25.

NFL Drafts 49 College Players

King Hill, John Crow Taken by Cardinals

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Football League drafted 49 standout college football players, made peace with its players and moved to bring its constitution and by-laws within the AntiTrust Act at a day-long meeting here Monday.

League coaches and their staffs spent some five hours poring over scouting reports as they moved through four of the 30 rounds in the annual player draft. The balance of the draft will be held at the league's regular mid-winter meeting next month. The preliminary selections were to give NFL teams equal footing with early drafting Canadian League clubs.

Top choices in the draft were King Hill, 210-pound Rice quarterback and John Crow, Texas A&M fullback, both taken by the Chicago Cardinals. The Cardinals named Hill their bonus choice and as first selector in the regular draft grabbed the power running Crow.

Other star 1957 collegians drafted for 1958 pro football duty were such All-America candidates as end Jimmy Phillips of unbeaten and untied Auburn, (Los Angeles), tackles Lou Michaels, Kentucky (Los Angeles), and Alex Karras, Iowa (Detroit), guard Bill Krisher, Oklahoma (Pittsburgh), center Dan Currie, Michigan State (Green Bay), Dick Christy, brilliant North Carolina State halfback "Green Bay", Jim Pace, Michigan back (San Francisco), Walt Kowalsky, Michigan State back (Philadelphia), and Phil King, Vanderbilt back (New York).

Unbeaten, untied Auburn, a latecomer among college football powers, ruled as the national champion today with a fat bulge over Ohio State and Michigan State in the final Associated Press poll of the season.

Auburn will be the first national champion to receive the Associated Press Trophy, put into competition this season as a successor to the Father Hugh O'Donnell Memorial trophy that was retired by Oklahoma last fall.

The Tigers, only once before ranked among the final top 10, pulled in 210 first-place votes and an overpowering total of 3,123 points in the balloting by 360 sports writers and broadcasters.

Auburn drew the highest number of first-place votes collected since Oklahoma pulled in a record 218 in the final 1955 poll. The Sooners finished fourth this season.

New Orleans—Larry Armistead, 130, New Orleans, outpointed Teddy Davis, 139, Hartford, Conn. 10. Providence, R.I.—Steve Ward, 145½, Hartford, Conn., outpointed Gene Butler 143½, Boston 10.

Unbeaten, Untied Auburn Rules As National Champs

By The Associated Press

Unbeaten, untied Auburn, a latecomer among college football powers, ruled as the national champion today with a fat bulge over Ohio State and Michigan State in the final Associated Press poll of the season.

Auburn will be the first national champion to receive the Associated Press Trophy, put into competition this season as a successor to the Father Hugh O'Donnell Memorial trophy that was retired by Oklahoma last fall.

The Tigers, only once before ranked among the final top 10, pulled in 210 first-place votes and an overpowering total of 3,123 points in the balloting by 360 sports writers and broadcasters.

Auburn drew the highest number of first-place votes collected since Oklahoma pulled in a record 218 in the final 1955 poll. The Sooners finished fourth this season.

Ohio State and Michigan State, both with 8-1 records, finished some 500 points behind Auburn in voting based on 10 points for first, 9 for second, 8 for third, etc. The Buckeyes, Big Ten champions and Rose Bowl representatives, collected 71 first-place votes and 2,646 points.

Michigan State had 30 first-place votes and 2,550 points. Oklahoma (9-1) picked up 22 first place votes and 2,182 points.

The rest of the top 10 were Navy, Iowa, Mississippi, Rice, Texas A&M and Notre Dame. Arizona State (10-0) the only other major unbeaten, untied team at season's close, finished 12th.

While Coach Shug Jordan told yelling, dancing students, who staged a rip-roaring celebration at news of the championship, that "as far as I'm concerned Auburn has been No. 1 all the year," Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes said the same of his Buckeyes.

Michigan State Coach Duffy Daugherty, making it understood he would vote for his spartans against any team in the country, with Mrs. Vernon Swinehart of acknowledged that both Auburn and Ohio State "proved their right to great recognition."

"If we couldn't be higher, there certainly are two great teams up here, I naturally lean toward Ohio State," Daugherty added.

PCL to Get $900,000 For Invasions

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The Pacific Coast League moved today to set up shop in three cities after agreeing to accept $900,000 for pulling out of Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The damage settlement from the invading National League Dodgers and Giants will be split up at $150,000 apiece by six clubs — Portland, Seattle, Vancouver, San Diego, Sacramento and Hollywood.

PCL's San Francisco franchise—owned by the Giants—will be moved to Phoenix, Ariz. The Los Angeles Club, property of the Dodgers, will go to Spokane. The Hollywood club is tentatively scheduled for Salt Lake City.

"I cannot say we're completely satisfied," said Leslie O'Connor, PCL president. "And I suppose neither are they (Dodgers and Giants). They had to come up and we had to come down."

The settlement provides for the San Francisco Giants and the Los Angeles Dodgers to pay damages to the PCL from gate receipts over the next three years. The agreement was reached at the opening of the annual meeting of the National Assn. of Professional Baseball Leagues (minors).

O'Connor said the shifts to Spokane, Phoenix and Salt Lake City depend upon those cities making park improvements and granting satisfactory leases by Dec. 16.

There were reports Sacramento might try to shift to Salt Lake City, which would complicate the Hollywood situation.

Police Fail to Capture Ten Imported Swans

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP)—Two groups of "seagoing" Fairmont Park police guards have been going around in circles on the Schuylkill River since Saturday trying to round up 10 imported swans which escaped from their riverside pen.

The birds with wings clipped had been brought in to grace riverside beautification projects.

Police in outboard motorboats tried casting bread on the waters, but still the swans paddled swiftly out of reach. The swans, worth about $75 each, meanwhile are missing their vitamins from a special food formula prepared by the zoo.

STEEL PRICES TO INCREASE

CLEVELAND (AP)—Steel prices probably will increase next year but production will remain about the same as 1957, editor Walter J. Campbell of the magazine Steel has predicted.

Speaking to a meeting of sales executives Monday, he said steel production in 1958 should about equal 1957 output of 114 to 115 million tons. A survey by the magazine, he said, showed more than half the nation's steel companies expect to raise prices in 1958.

THREE STEAL $3,000

Ex-Trooper Takes Stand In Hoffa Trial

NEW YORK (AP)—A state trooper turned Hollywood stage actor says he was told James R. Hoffa had the telephones of Teamsters Union subordinates tapped to "find out whether they were selling him out" to racket investigators.

The ex-trooper, Rudolph L. Doelicke, 31, testified Monday in the federal trial of Hoffa, president-elect of the Teamsters.

The trial continues today with Doelicke again on the stand.

Doelicke said he helped install wiretapping equipment in the Detroit headquarters of the Teamsters for Hoffa. The job took three days in July 1953, he testified.

Bernard Spindel, a professional wiretapper, of Holmes, N. Y., hired him, Doelicke testified, and told him "some employees of the union were being called as witnesses before an official investigating body and Hoffa was interested in finding out what kind of testimony they were giving."

The witness added: "Spindel said Hoffa wanted to monitor their phone talks to find out whether they were selling him out."

Previous testimony showed that at the time of the alleged wiretapping, official investigations of Detroit labor rackets had been started by a Michigan grand jury and congressional committees.

Hoffa, Spindel and Bernard Brennan, president of Teamsters Local 337 in Michigan, are being tried before Federal Judge Frederick Van Pelt Bryan and a jury on charges of illegal wiretapping conspiracy.
